1952

reflector

to strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield

The Reflector is published by students of Weymouth High School, Weymouth, Massachusetts. Editor, Marjorie L. Bender; Business Manager, Robert Delahunt; Cover Design by Margaret Chubbuck; Faculty Advisers, Prescott B. Brown, William Kearns, Evelyn Silvester, and Alice White.

Printed by Students of the Printing Department
John F. Collins, Herman F. Perry, Instructors
Weymouth Vocational School

With fond remembrances of her friendly nature, unselfish heart, and genuine sincerity, we, the Class of 1952, wish to dedicate this yearbook to the memory of our former classmate, Leslie MacDonald. As we travel along life's uncertain path, we shall always be thankful for the moments we have shared with her, keeping the spirit of her gentle manner in our memory.

Mark the perfect man and behold the upright.

M. JEAN YOUNG, Commercial
She takes every incident with a quiet, reassuring attitude.

To Our Editor

Students write then poetry of summer, winter, or fall,
Homework, and the busy lunch room, and praises for football

Still not one of our students ever does put into rhyme
Praises of the editor who gives the Reflector all her time.

She assigns to the staff different jobs to be carried through,
And informs English teachers when Reflector stories are due.

When the work is all turned in, for her the task has just begun
She must evaluate all stories and slowly sort them, one by one.

Then those that are the best must to the typists quickly go.
Mr. Brown and our Miss White must read and give them then "say so.

Now ready for the print shop, where the boys their work must do.
That's the story of the paper until the time it comes to you.

Marge, we thank you for your time and all the work you do.
Here's best wishes from us all — the Class of Fifty-two.

THE NECESSARY CODE

Marjorie Libby Bender

NEARLY five thousand years ago, when the heroes and prophets of the Old Testament were first preaching the word of God, Isaiah, one of the wisest, expressed his lofty vision of a peaceful and united world in the prophetic message that foretold that the time would come when:

"Nation shall not lift up sword against nation, Neither shall they learn war any more."

Today we are still grasping for that precious gift of peace and looking forward to the fulfillment of that ancient promise.

The centuries that span the generations between Biblical times and the modern day have seen many phenomenal accomplishments in a constantly changing world. Man has achieved virtual miracles in every conceivable field. Travel has increased from nomadic wanderings of pastoral tribes to flights that circumvent the globe in a matter of hours. Science and medicine have advanced from inaccurate philosophical reasonings to vast programs of research and study, which today have raised the health standards on every continent. Mechanical devices of almost miraculous advancement have released the body from physical enslavement, giving man a much freer, easier life—a life that grants him opportunity to create and enjoy new comforts and luxuries.

Yet for all these concrete examples of unparalleled progress and success, discovered and invented over years of struggle and privation, and culminating in our advanced and cultural world of today, we have not yet found the needed essence to create universal peace, although dictators and evil leaders have ever been combatted.

Somewhere, somehow, a link has slipped; we have failed in our duty; in some way we have been blind to our obligations and have not grasped our opportunities. In the confused complexity of life we have stressed material progress over all else. The status of a nation is determined by the size of its armies and by the machines of war and destruction; individual power and prestige, by the extent of a person's bankroll and property. Indeed, it seems as though the fault lies in the warped set of standards by which we live.

Abstract qualities of justice and equality can do more to set the course of destiny than any human conception. If we wish to attain true peace for all people, we must acknowledge that patience, kindliness, and fortitude are the motivating forces behind man's advance; and that love and faith can lead people from the path of error to that of righteous action by fanning the spark of Divine Presence within them. We need to turn our minds from the dictates of our imperfect world and seek spiritual guidance. Man's code for peace involves great armies and navies, extensive fortifications, huge sums of money, and the sacrifice of innumerable lives; while the code of God is "to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God." How much more simple and perfect is the way of the Almighty. How flawlessly patterned to envelop all His children, regardless of nationality or creed.

We have gained much over the centuries; a wiser world has conquered many far-reaching horizons. Distant lands have become close neighbors as more extensive invention has enabled nations to transcend physical barriers. Still we have not yet realized that true and lasting peace prophesied for the world, because nation has not yet learned how to live peaceably with nation in the complete harmony of justice and understanding. Not until we have learned to practise God's teachings shall war be eliminated and shall we experience true peace that will enable all nations to be as a rainbow, reflecting beauty and blending the world together in the light of God.

HIGH HONOR ESSAY

AMERICA at the CROSSROADS

Robert Morrison Delahunt

TIME continues in its steady march—a march of progress, it is called, improving the world in many different ways, but always leaving behind many unsolved problems, problems seemingly far greater than those of our inheritance. At present, we might say that there are three vital crossroads leading to a world peace, but each has its impediments.

The first of these roads is the one leading to Europe, where a primary obstacle is encountered. After World War I the Allies established Germany as an independent republic, believing that a country, so impoverished, would never again use its power to jeopardize the world. No one was ever more disillusioned; within the space of twenty years, Germany seized the sword of aggression and began the invasion of the Baltic countries. In 1945, we again conquered Germany; once more the problem of governing the vanquished power arose. Then it was agreed to divide the country into sectors among the Allies, the result being the creation of a situation of serious consequence. East Germany, itself a small country, has replaced Naziism with Communism. The rest of the satellite countries are being racked by the scourge of Red domination and, as a result, many border troubles have arisen. Behind most of these struggles is Russia, whose success today is attributed chiefly to the fact that the prevailing economic conditions after World War II compelled many nations to accept her leadership.

The second crossroad leads to Asia where an unusually serious hindrance is present. We had once conquered the North Koreans, but we are being confronted by a new and grave threat, as hordes of Chinese Reds pour across the Manchurian border to aid the rapidly disintegrating North Korean army. Other incidents have occurred in French Indo-China, where, after six years of fighting the native Communists, the French have withdrawn their forces, despite the fact that the United States has granted them millions of dollars in aid. We wonder if we should make futher allotments, which, in the past have been seemingly ill-spent. In Japan another crisis is foreboding. The United States has re-established the industrial potential of that country, but the big businessmen in America have, through political influence, clamped protective tariffs on Japanese goods. As a result, with whom can Japan trade? The one and only logical answer is Russia or Communistic China. If this should come about, there is no doubt that in the future more and frequent Korean-type situations will arise.

The remaining crossroad, to my mind, conducts us to America, the only one of the major powers in World War II that was free from hostile attack. The people of America were spared the ravages of disease, hunger, devastation, and despair which afflicted millions in the countries of the Old World. Being the richest and most powerful of all nations, she has the resources to lead the inauguration of an era of peace. We are ashamed to say, however, that the manifestation of corrupt policies practised by our government officials shows to what a low ebb the ethics of many in important positions have been lowered. We all should be faithful in the practice of economy, industry, and honesty, so that we shall be going forward toward the fulfillment of the ideals of our founding fathers, who set up the principles of correct living and honest enterprise.

These three problems—that of our affairs in Europe, the Korean situation, and the dishonesty in trade and government within our own country—are not the only barriers impeding our advance, but are probably the most significant. In the words of Abraham Lincoln, the man who guided our country through a great crisis,

"In your hands, fellow students, lies the future of our country."

HIGH HONOR ESSAY

PROGRESS of MAN

Kenneth Edward Nash

"Roll on, thou deep and dark blue ocean, roll!
Ten thousand fleets sweep over thee in vain;
Man marks the world with ruin,—his control
Stops with the shore."

LORD BYRON

Downs through the ages many and varied have been the changes, effecting a progress, rich in advancement, resulting in the world of today. As primitive man began to develop, he constantly sought ways of improving living conditions by utilizing all resources. From earliest times natural raw materials have been used to build shelters, secure warmth, and provide weapons to encounter any threat to existence.

Early inventions, such as the wheel, enabled man to travel, thus allowing a better acquaintance with people and surroundings. Progress, however, gave birth to numerous problems, the solution of which could be found only by additional invention. Marked advance was made not only in material, but also in mental development. Soon the art of writing was introduced, making possible recorded history. Then barbarian civilizations gave way to the more cultured Graeco-Roman period, when ethics began to undergo definite changes. Although seemingly crude attempts at democracy, the Greek City States and Roman Republic were the first experiments of a people's government. During this time, despite the persecutions of an expanding empire, Christianity was founded. Trade, art, and literature all took a firm footing, but their influence was impaired by the general decline of morals.

From the collapse of the Roman Empire to the modern era, the so-called Western World experienced a period of complete disinterest in culture, commonly referred to as the "Dark Ages." No noticeable steps foward were made in this interval of six hundred years until late in the period, when the Roman legal code, the foundation of modern jurisprudence, was first taken into consideration. The Renaissance, the rebirth of interest in art and learning, was a time of discovery, producing such great men as DaVinci, Galileo, Vesalius, Copernicus, and, later, Newton, whose inventions and theories fill the pages of medieval history.

Shortly after the discovery of America, the Reformation, begun by Martin Luther, resulted in the long series of religious wars, producing many significant changes in Europe. The rise of modern science and philosophy caused a rapid growth which led to a period of exploration, ending in the founding of the New World. Having profited by the mistakes of her mother countries, the United States has grown miraculously, now claiming world supremacy and leadership.

At present, it appears that modern man, with such a fund of knowledge, has overstepped his sphere of control. Recent products of his mind, namely the atomic weapons and bacterial warfare, are possible means of destroying every advancement. Although successful in increasing life span to an almost unbelievable length, the scientist of today is unable to halt the wars and threats of war which constantly interrupt his work.

Man cannot change the ultimate destiny of the world. He may build cities and destroy them, yet the fate of the universe lies with the Creator. God does not wish to see man perish; therefore we may look forward with faith and courage. Before us are the same type of problems which have faced American youth for many years.

God has watched over all and, with His aid, the world has ever settled the most serious difficulties. Facilities of education have increased; so let us hope that man, too, has grown proportionately, and that we can successfully assume the responsibilities of this atomic age.

Reflector Staff

THE PAST year of Reflector publication has seen many innovations in the style and arrangement of material, especially in this final yearbook issue. The staff, with the tireless co-operation and support of the faculty advisers, has attempted to bring a more informal edition to the student body. In January, all Reflector departments combined efforts to be a gracious host to the second annual meeting of the Southeastern Massachusetts League of School Publications. Members also enjoyed attending the Globe Press conferences, especially the one at which Taft and Kefauver addressed the group.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the advisers and students alike, who have made our Reflector magazine successful.

Student Council

THIS PAST year the Student Council has been active in improving Weymouth High School for the pupils. Besides organizing the fire-drill squad, and keeping the lunch room in order, they have sponsored the Halloween and Victory Dances. Members worked with the faculty and cheerleaders to present a number of varied assemblies throughout the year. The sale of book covers and class pins was also managed by council members. Delegates and representatives attended both the Fall and Spring Conventions of the Southeastern Branch of Associated Bodies of Student Councils of Massachusetts. With the co-operation the student body has given us, we are sure the Student Council members of the year 1952-1953 will have a successful term of office.

Oratorical Contest

This year the first elimination in the annual Legion Oratorical contest was held as usual, with Majorie Bender, Donald Gay, Carolyn Holbrook, James MacLeish, John Saloma, Kenneth Whittemore, and Joan Williams, competing.

The four contestants selected for the district competition were Carolyn Holbrook, James MacLeish, John Saloma, and Joan Williams. In a close contest John Saloma was judged the winner, with Joan Williams chosen as alternate.

Library Club

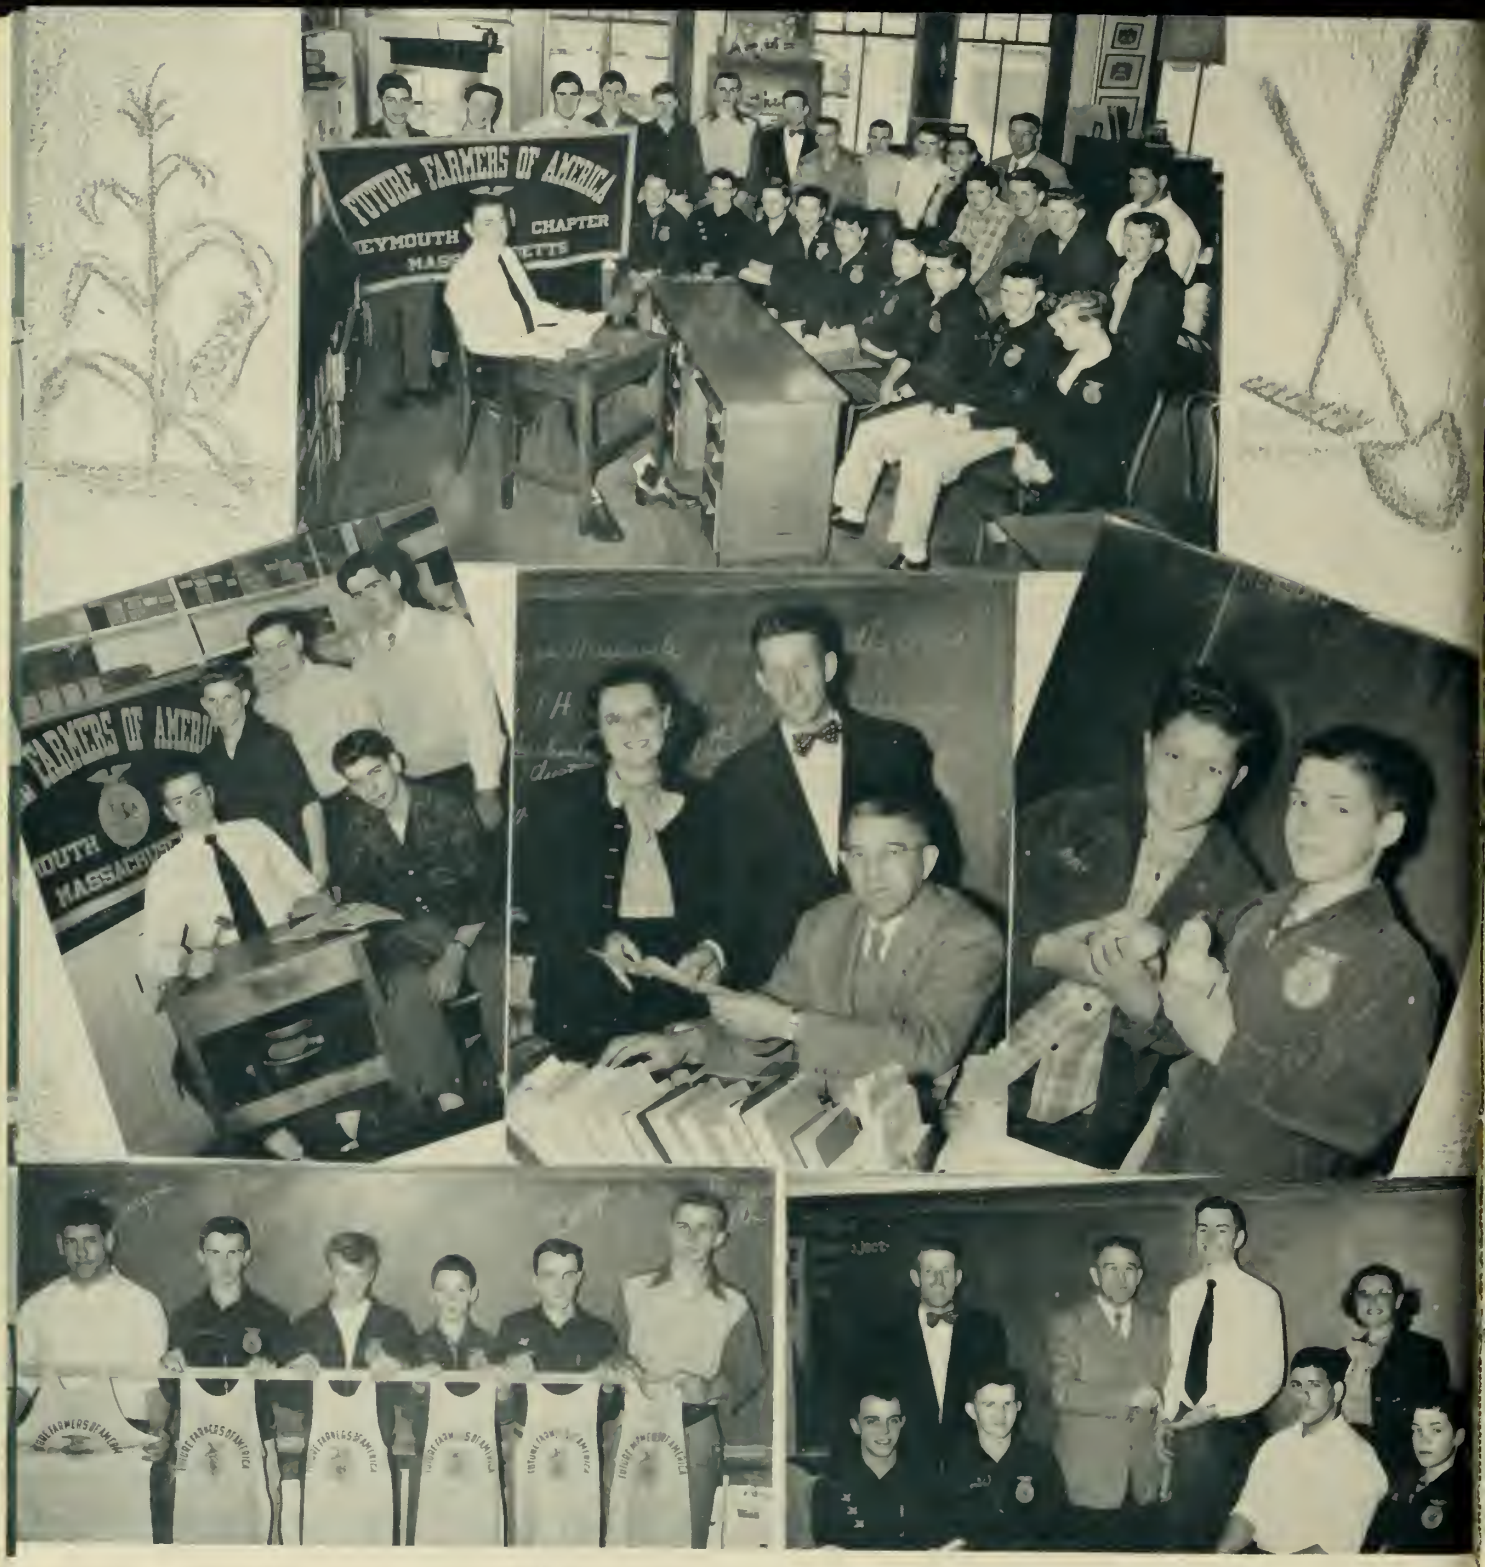
All good books are interesting. The Library Club enjovs charging and shelving books, arranging bulletins and exhibits, and performing all duties that give service to the school.

Laboratory Assistants

THE LABORATORY Assistants have done an excellent job of taking care of the third-floor science department. Besides their ordinary tasks of keeping the lab in order, cleaning used equipment, and refilling supplies, the boys have succeeded in keeping order during the confusion prior to the climax of a year's work, the Science Fair.

Spanish Club

THIS YEAR the Spanish Club has been very successful. Some of the programs consisting of movies of the Mediterranean, an enjoyable Christmas party, a celebration of Pan-American Day, and various skits by the club members. The club concluded its activities with a picnic—a perfect ending for a perfect year in the Spanish Club.



Future Farmers of America

The Weymouth Chapter of Future Farmers of America is one link in a national chain of boys who intend to farm for a living. We train for leadership and respect. A well-rounded program of self-leadership includes sports, speaking contests, judging contests, parliamentary law, scholarship, and farm skill training.

Pleasant memories, such as certain "hot dog" roasts, are good to reflect upon during our more serious moments on the farm.

As seniors, some of us are no longer future farmers, but active farmers following our creed: "I believe in less dependence on begging and more power in bargaining; in the life abundant and enough honest wealth to help make it so—for others as well as myself."

Pep Club

THE PEP CLUB is a newly inaugurated organization, formed for the purpose of increasing school spirit. Under the guidance of Mr. Stuart, the group has become one of the most active of school clubs. They have planned many beneficial rallies and have given teams well-deserved support in their important games.

Audio-Visual Club

MR. PAUL CLEAVES has led the Audio-Visual Club to another successful season of bringing educational entertainment to the pupils through the medium of motion pictures and other audio-visual aids. The club members, trained in the operation of these machines, are certainly part of a worthy club.

Cheerleaders

THE MAROON and gold uniforms of our peppy cheerleaders have been seen at every rally, football, and basketball game. As our teams have maintained their top ratings, so have these girls kept their superior record. The squad is composed of co-captains Joan Williams and Natalie Lond, Barbara Barton, Mary-Jane Mahoney, Elizabeth Marin, Jean Rizzo, Helen McGonnigal, Roberta Spain, Lorraine Brady, with substitutes Marilyn Lewis, Nancy Burns, Gloria Wheeler, and Carolyn Pitts. The cheerleaders wish to thank the sections that made so realistic the cheer:

"Touchdown, touchdown, touchdown, boys!
You make the touchdown; we'll make the noise."

Football

Weymouth achieved its second successive Class-A Championship this year, under the direction of Coach Arlanson, with co-captains Robert Jacobson and Dorick Mauro. Our coach has moulded another club of which the school may be well proud.

Working along, hand in hand with the players, were the managers, who comprise an essential part of every successful team.

There were no easily won games on the 1951 schedule, since many new teams, such as Greenfield, had been added to the agenda. The picture at the lower right clearly illustrates the result of hard-fought decisions and the heart-broken feelings that our opponents experienced.

Basketball

COACH WHITMORE's first year as head coach was certainly a successful one, since the basketball team achieved its goal of competing in the Class B Tourney for the second consecutive year.

The first game of the Tech Tourney was played against Winchester. For three periods the score swayed back and forth, until Weymouth finally dominated the play to win by seven points. The semi-finals approached and Weymouth was matched with a more experienced and undefeated team from Fairhaven. In this game, fouls defeated Weymouth's cause and Fairhaven won by eleven points. Next year's team can look forward to an even brighter future, because many regulars and jayvees are returning.

WEYMOUTH certainly fulfilled all expectations, a comparatively inexperienced track team overshadowing many a rival of superior speed and stamina. The success can be credited to Mr. Page, who combined stars like Bill Trudell, "Duke" Murphy, and Dave Settele with the other speed men to create a well-balanced outfit. The final test of merit was proved by the excellent showing at both the Boston Garden Meet, and the State Meet.

Track

THE CROSS-COUNTRY team also deserves praise for its hard work, work that is seldom appreciated or rewarded by the student body. Strenuous preparation proved beneficial. This year's team showed itself to be as noteworthy as those of past years.

Cross-Country

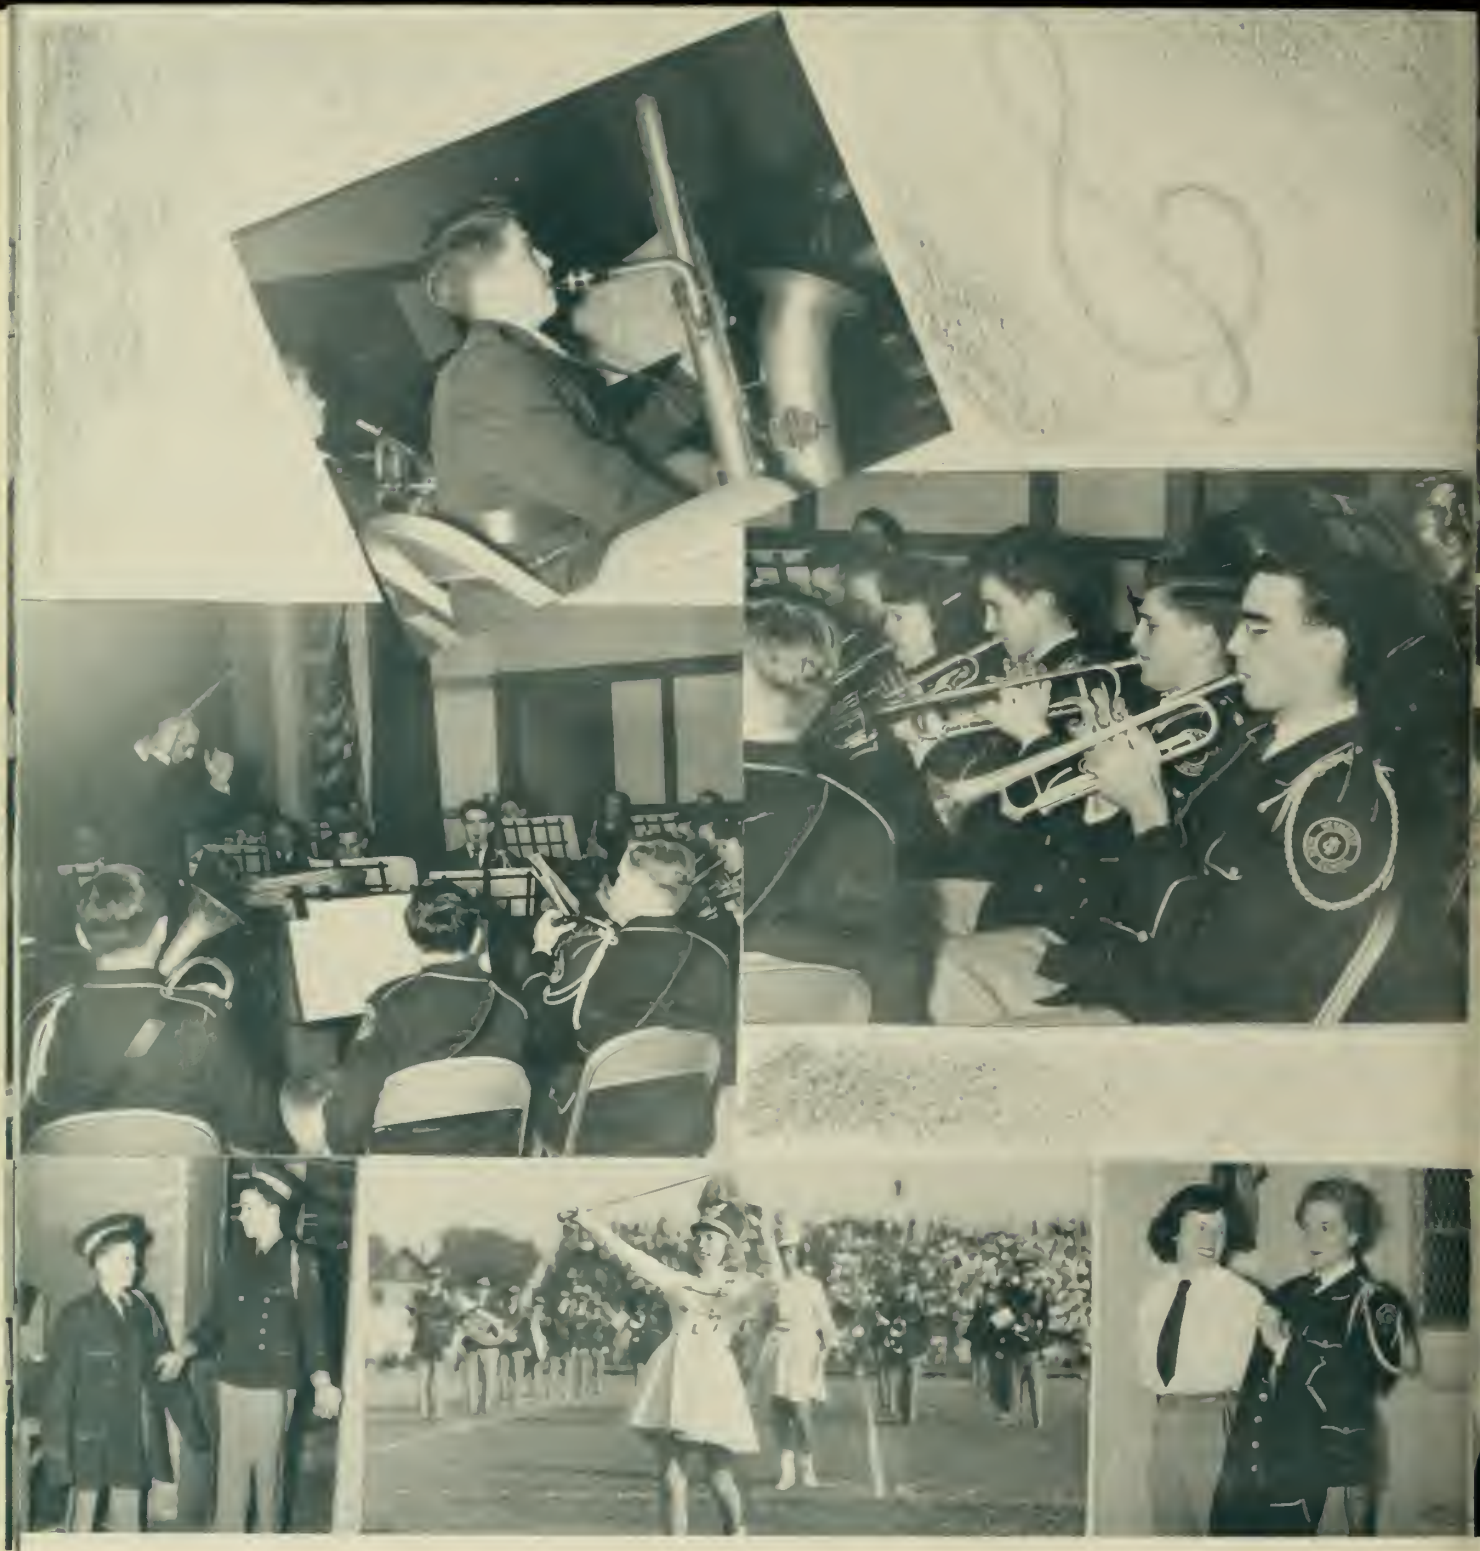
Baseball

Weymouth has produced many exceptional baseball teams, proving that the school does not excel in the sport of football alone. The 1951 baseball team was a credit to the school, since it was chosen to enter the State Baseball Tourney, at Braves Field.

At the midway mark of the current baseball season, Weymouth is at the moment undefeated, with a six and nothing record. With a tight defence, clutch hitters, and a formidable pitching staff, much is expected during the latter part of the season. This year's team, under the instruction of Coaches Arlanson and Hayes, is one of the best and leaves behind it a challenge to those teams that will follow.

Girls' Sports

AT LONG LAST, girls taking part in extra-curricular sports activities have received recognition of their achievements. This winter the girls' basketball team played an exciting game with girls from Woodward School and came out victors. Girls interested in participating in field hockey, basketball, volley-ball, badminton, or softball will find their time well spent in the company of excellent instructors and friendly companions. Their efforts will also be rewarded, as numerals are awarded to those who have earned an adequate number of points through individual team standing; and once these are achieved, a school letter and star are goals for which to strive.

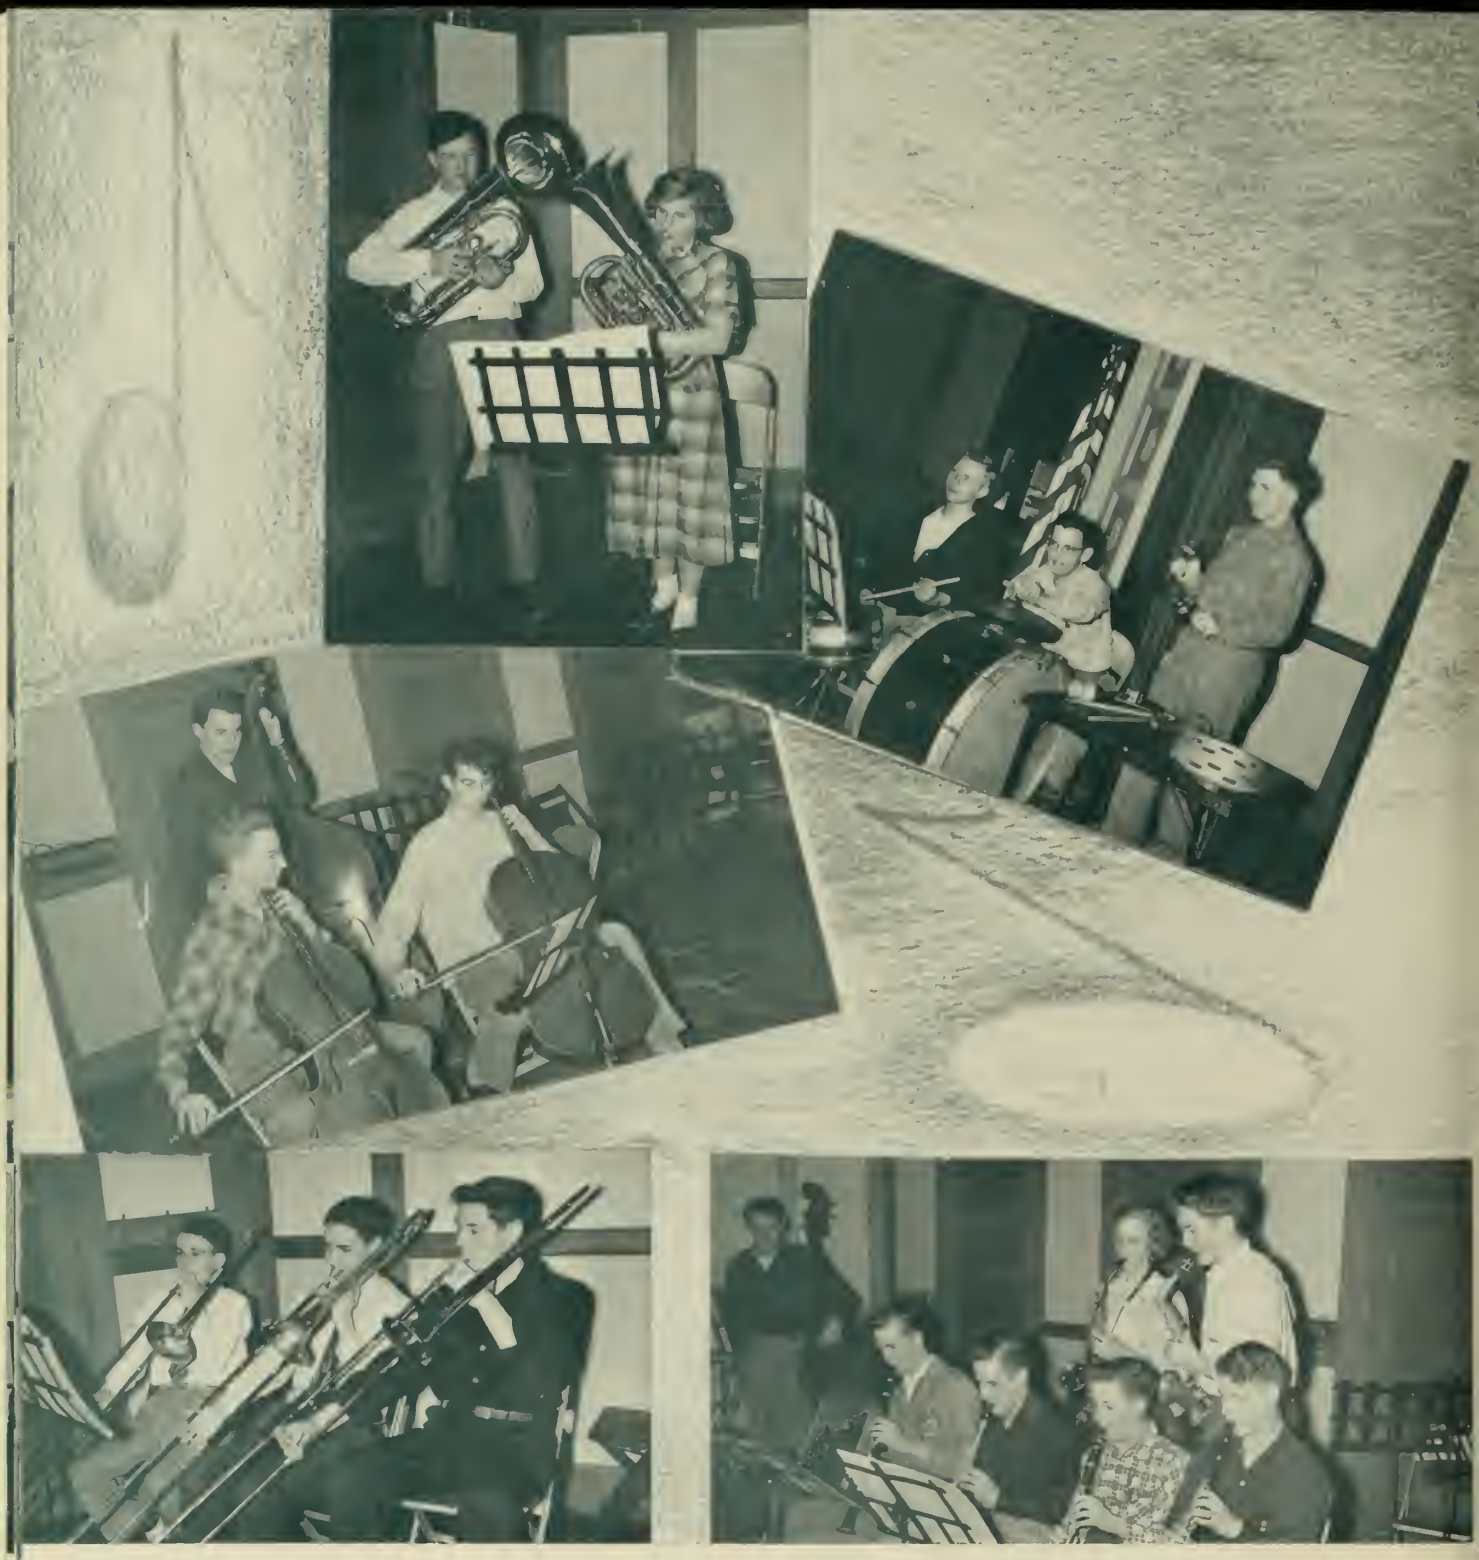


Band

THE BAND is one of the most active musical groups in the high school. All of the forty members have shown much enthusiasm over their busy schedule and have enjoyed the rehearsals, which are held at least twice a week. Mr. Jack, the leader, has united the various sections of the Band into one group to make a creditable showing at the State Festival at Middleboro. Besides playing serious music and competing for prizes, the group enjoys many good times. These occasions take place when they help supplement the stands at football games, entertain the fans at half-time with difficult formations, and also lend support and noise to the basketball team when they compete in the Boston Garden tournaments. A busy year has been completed.

Choir

The Choir is a particularly popular division of the Music Department. It seems to appeal mostly to the girls, however; the members are most eager to add a few more male voices to the group. During the year, Mr. Jack has skillfully managed to choose songs which would provide training for young voices, besides excellent entertainment. At the annual concerts, the Choir performed well before an appreciative audience. Another activity that gives pleasure to every member is the opportunity to attend the annual State Festival, being held at Middleboro. Leadership and co-operation, the most important factors in forming a harmonious group, are more than evident this year.



Orchestra

The Weymouth High School Orchestra has completed the 1952 season with notable achievement. The members are a hard-working group, their merits being measured in quality, not quantity. The string section is perhaps the most greatly improved, since its members were fortunate in securing as their instructor, Dr. Boranoff, who is music instructor at Boston University and Columbia University. Each section has worked as a unit to form a finished product of which any school might be proud. Mr. Jack has presented his musicians at both Winter and Spring Concerts, where they received enthusiastic response. The State Music Festival at Middleboro was a further test of their skill.

"MOTHER is a Freshman" was a delightful, romantic comedy in three acts presented by the Senior Class of Weymouth High School, under the direction of Miss Edna Flaherty, on Wednesday, February 6 and Friday, February 8. The cast included: Nancy O'Neil, Stuart Hemingway, Marilyn Smith, Anna Murphy, Veola Humphries, Carol Trueman, Frances Perry, Margaret Reap, Louise Cicchese, Susan Atwood, William Cicchese, Robert Jacobson, George Matson, Peter Bisognano, and John Saloma, while Carolyn Holbrook was Book Holder. The play proved to be a huge success as was evidenced by the fact that it was a "sell-out" for both performances. The story was based on typical college life and appealed to both young and old.

We the Senior Class of 1952, of Weymouth High School, in the town of Weymouth, in the County of Norfolk and the State of Massachusetts, being of sound mind and memory, and considering the uncertainty of this transitory life, do hereby make, ordain, publish, and declare this to be our last will and testament, in manner and form following, that is to say:

FIRST—To Mr. Mapes and the School Committee, we leave a request that considering the frailities of the modern generation, they make a change in policy permitting NO SCHOOL days during slightly misty weather.

SECOND—To Mr. Whittle, we leave a time-saving record which he can play to each following senior class, explaining the cost of graduation, banquet, reception, prom, play, the year book, etc., etc.

THIRD—To Mr. Lyons, we leave a new senior class which will not indulge in the bad habits of being late, skipping school, or taking over his office as a homeroom.

FOURTH—To Miss Nash and Miss Heaver, we leave peace and quiet.

FIFTH—To the underclassmen, we leave a large, red brick building, slightly used, situated on Middle Street in the town of Weymouth. This building is not to be sold to settle any debts we may have acquired; it is to be held as our most valued asset to be passed down from generation to generation.

SIXTH—To the Driver Education Classes, we leave a specially designed car that will not stall, hit other cars, or grind gears every time a student attempts to drive.

SEVENTH—To certain girls who get bored sitting in their home rooms, we leave a reserved area for strolling in the vicinity of 206-C.

EIGHTH—To the Student Council, we leave a number of automatic turnstyles to use during fire drills to keep the students in line.

NINTH—To "4C" we leave a special room with reclining chairs, head rests, foot stools, plus any added luxury they may desire to make their school days a little less tiring.

TENTH—To the football co-captains of 1953, we leave the continued success of the 52'er's.

ELEVENTH—To Mr. Swan, we leave a box of chocolate flavored chalk. We think we would find it much tastier than the ordinary white school chalk now in use.

TWELFTH—To Mr. Brown, we leave a red light for his lapel so that no unlucky individual will accidently run into him while he is dashing through the corridors.

THIRTEENTH—To Mr. Raymond, Paul Revere leaves his horse—it's not troubled with a radiator.

FOURTEENTH—To Miss Stockwell, we leave a new magic formula to pass to students, insuring them of health and happiness.

FIFTEENTH—To Mr. Kearns, we leave a roomful of students, resembling angels, wearing wings and halos, and all diligently perusing their many books.

SIXTEENTH—To Miss Norris, we leave a senior class, each member of which attends and stays at the Prom until 12:01.

SEVENTEENTH—To Mr. Mazzola, we leave a penny bank so that we can save all his pennies for the special "Crippled Cricket Fund."

EIGHTEENTH—To Miss Andem, now the proud possessor of a cake box and a bread tin, we leave a cookie jar.

NINETEENTH—To the faculty, we leave an abundant supply of understanding, patience, and sympathy, which we know they will need in their future years at Weymouth High School.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, WE HAVE HEREUNTO SET OUR HANDS THIS THIRD DAY OF JUNE, 1952. SIGNED AND PUBLISHED AS OUR LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT BY THE SAID CLASS OF 1952 IN THE PRESENCE OF US, WHO IN THE PRESENCE OF EACH OTHER HAVE HERETO SUBSCRIBED OUR NAMES AS WITNESSES.
